

JASTE25 International Symposium

日本熱帯生態学会 25周年記念国際シンポジウム

Networking for the Sustainable Future of the Tropics

熱帯地域の持続的な未来を目ざすネットワークの構築

The rich biodiversity and various ecosystem services provided by natural tropical ecosystems are threatened by complex interdisciplinary issues at local, regional and global scales. Thus, it is urgent to foster research coordination networks for balancing the need for conservation and development in tropical regions. In this symposium, six distinguished speakers will provide overviews on ongoing efforts on such research coordination networks.

The lectures will be followed by a panel discussion to synthesize needs of and future priorities in fostering such networks.
